Hi Miki,

We'll double check the links – you are correct, there should be a separate document for the capital facilities inventory and a separate document for the utilities inventory.

In terms of the email list, you should have received an email with a link to these documents if you are signed up for the Comprehensive Plan Update newsflash feature of our website, <http://sanjuanico.com/Admin/CivicAlerts.aspx>. Please check to see that you are signed up for the newsflash, and if you are and didn't receive an email link to these documents – let me know.

We prefer to post the links on the web and send links to avoid using up too much email storage space. We're happy to email documents upon request.

Hi.

According to islandguardian.com, Housing Needs Assessment and Capital Facilities and Utilities Inventories are now available. Unfortunately, the Utilities Inventory is posted on the links for both utilities and capital facilities. Shouldn't two separate, different documents be posted?

Also, were these documents supposed to be sent out to the email list? If so, I did not receive them.
