1. The County is still in the position of being asked to take action without the kind of data that warrants it. Is there anyone official creating a data gathering plan?
2. Why on earth does the County (or State) use "vacant" to characterize summer homes/second homes? It leads to wild claims that half the houses in the County are empty and should be made available to people who want to live in them.
3. How does the County determine which properties to count in the "vacant" category?
