The old neighborhood I have lived in for nearly fifty years at Buckhorn on Orcas Island has turned into more vacation rentals than permanent homes. The impact has been truly upsetting for those of us who are old islanders and long ago came here to live a rural and peaceful life. The car traffic is truly appalling, and everything we care about is being changed or over used. We are now surrounded by revolving partying strangers.

I hope it is not already too late.

Thank you for listening,

Lesley Liddle
